Blast kills student

- School evacuated after oil drum blows up
- Authorities investigating cause of explosion

An 18-year-old Mother Teresa Catholic High School student is dead after a drum with oil residue inside exploded in a shop class at about 10:30 a.m. on Thursday.

Eric Leighton was initially found by paramedics with no vital signs. Although resuscitated while en route to hospital, sources confirmed last night that he later succumbed to his injuries.

"We transported him and en route did aggressive treatment on him," said Joe Micucci, director of operations for the Ottawa Paramedic Service.

As of 1:30 p.m., the teen was in critical condition in hospital. Last night, just after 9 p.m., an Ottawa Catholic School Board spokesperson issued a statement confirming Leighton's death and asking the media to give the community space to grieve.

Five other people suffered non-life-threatening injuries in the incident, including one 33-year-old teacher from the school, said Ottawa police spokesperson Const. Marc Soucy.

Students were evacuated to Longfields-Davidson Heights HS at 149 Berrigan Drive following the blast. The fire department is still investigating exactly what happened and could only confirm that the vapours from an almost-empty 55 gallon drum of oil ignited in a "flash explosion."

Students at the school said the class was making barbecues in the shop class. ● JESSICA SMITH

Fall proves fatal

Police are investigating the death of a woman who fell 10 to 12 floors from an apartment building on Alta Vista Drive.

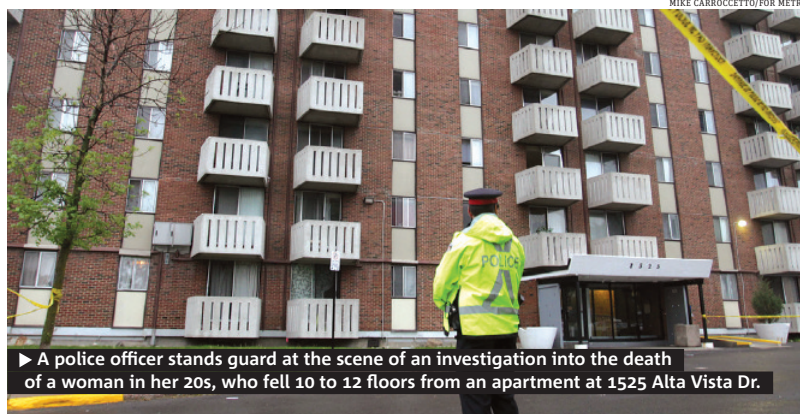

Although initially reported to be a child by emergency services, police say the woman is in her 20s.

Paramedics say the woman was found in cardiac arrest and had "multiple system trauma."

They say they started "aggressive resuscitation efforts" at the scene, but the woman still had no vital signs when they transported her to hospital.

Police say the woman's family has been notified, but they are not releasing her name publicly until they determine the circumstances surrounding her fall.

Students heard from media, Facebook and Twitter that 18-year-old Eric Leighton was killed in an explosion in shop class at Mother Teresa Catholic High School.

"I've known him since Grade 7, he's always been around," said 17-year-old Brenna Thompson.

"He was really into sports like lacrosse — he was really good. He's got a little sister and stuff and he looked out for her and he cared about everybody."

The last time she saw him was at prom, last Friday.

"He's always been there, so it's going to be weird not having him there to text him, not going out for lunch and stuff, not seeing him on spare. It's really sad."

Students will be able to speak with priests at the school to deal with trauma and grief, said Archbishop Terrance Prendergast in a statement. An Ottawa Catholic School Board spokesperson said psychologists and counsellors were also made available to students yesterday and will continue to provide support in the days ahead.

"We pray that the students be free of any post-traumatic stress or depression," said Prendergast.

Standing in a field in Kenya with a gun pointed in her face, Wangu Kanja was told to take her clothes off or be killed — she chose to live.

"I had to give in, and he raped me, and my whole world went into a standstill. I could not cry, I could not think straight," Kanja said yesterday, at a panel discussion in Ottawa about sexual violence organized by the Nobel Women's Initiative.

Three of the speakers — American Jody Williams, Irish Mairead Maguire and Iranian Shirin Ebadi — are Nobel Peace laureates who

"I decided to use my experience to help other survivors of sexual violence."

WANGU KANJA, WHO UNDERTOOK 20 HOURS OF COUNSELLING

have focused their attention on ending sexual violence in conflict zones.

Kanja went from being a victim of rape to a hero for rape victims, but not until after years of depression and alcohol abuse that followed her attack.

An audience member asked what can be done to stop sexual violence, and Williams answered that citizens around the world need to pressure their governments. Williams was awarded for her work to ban landmines, which she said can serve as a model for other causes.

"If you get enough civil society groups in different countries doing the same thing, which is what we had in the landmine effort, you begin to make more momentum to bring about change," Williams said.

Worker falls six metres into pit at Saudi embassy

JESSICA SMITH/METRO

A 31-year-old construction worker fell more than six metres into a mud pit at a construction site at the Royal Embassy of Saudi Arabia on Thurston Drive, yesterday morning.

He was working for Colautti Construction, said C.E.O. Dwight Corcoran.

"From what we know right now, he's in stable condition, he's coherent," Corcoran said, after the accident.

Paramedics said the man was in serious but stable condition when he arrived in hospital.

He was extricated from the pit by a team of firefighters and paramedics and suffered injuries to his head, neck, back and extremities, but did not lose consciousness.

Paramedics treated the mud-covered patient with

Military medical history exposed

The Canadian War Museum will launch a new exhibit Friday called War + Medicine, which examines the past and present relationship between warfare and the medical profession.

Curator Dr. Tim Cook said the "unflinching, at times, difficult show" covers 150 years of military medical history.

"It covers both the reaction and impact of war, with all of its trauma," said Cook.

The exhibit is divided into three thematic sections: The System, The Body, and The Mind, and includes sculptures, paintings, and various artifacts depicting the mechanisms and traumas of military medicine.

"This is powerful stuff," said Cook.

One of the key differences between medical care during wars in the 1800s and today is the speed at which wounded soldiers are cleared from the front lines, thanks to helicopters.

The exhibit will run from Friday through Nov. 13 at the Canadian War Museum. JOE LOFARO

Marathon woman: Running for a reason

► Runners raised more than $900,000 last year for the Ottawa Hospital Foundation, one of the Race Weekend's partner charities

JOE LOFARO
@METRONEWS.CA

Tara Benjamin enjoys running because it's a great way to spend time with friends and keep fit. But on Sunday, she'll run for another reason — her grandpa.

Benjamin, 25, lost her grandpa, Carl Benjamin, to a devastating fight with cancer on March 9 and now she is running the full marathon on Sunday for him during the Ottawa Race Weekend.

"He was great, just the nicest man. Really funny, kind, and caring," said a choked-up Benjamin.

"Everybody who met him liked him, and he loved anything that I was doing. It could be the most boring, dull thing."

To date she has raised more than $7,000 for the Ottawa Hospital Foundation through generous donations from family, friends and even strangers.

"It's crazy, I'm so grateful," she said. "It's way beyond what I expected."

The 42-kilometre run will be a first for Benjamin but she will be thinking of her grandpa all the way up to the finish line.

► Tara Benjamin tries on a pair of running shoes Thursday at the Running Room on Bank Street ahead of Ottawa Race Weekend, which begins Saturday.

'The race goes rain or shine'

Sunday is calling for isolated showers but Jim Robinson, Ottawa Race Weekend director, doesn't suspect it will deter many runners from showing up this weekend.

"Most of these runners are pretty hearty people," said Robinson. "The race goes rain or shine so I would think the majority of the runners will show up rain or shine."

Going into its 37th year, the race is the biggest multi-distance race event in Canada and is the country's largest marathon. Last year, a record-breaking 39,010 runners registered to run and this year that number increased to just less than 40,000.

The race begins on Saturday at 4 p.m. and on Sunday at 7 a.m., and will include a 2K, 5K, 10K, half, and full marathon. The Queen Elizabeth Driveway between Laurier Avenue and Somerset Street West will be closed from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday through Sunday. JOE LOFARO

Bruni blasts sexism

- France's first lady condemns comments that followed IMF chief's arrest
- One politician said rape case overblown — after all, 'nobody died'

France's first lady on Thursday backed an appeal by feminists condemning sexist comments that followed the arrest of then-IMF chief Dominique Strauss-Kahn.

Carla Bruni-Sarkozy supported the campaign, Sexism: they (men) lose it and women pay, on her official website.

More than 25,000 people have signed a petition organized by feminist groups condemning "misogynist comments by public figures" after Strauss-Kahn's arrest on charges of attempting to rape a hotel chambermaid.

Several commentators appeared to downplay the seriousness of the allegations or depicted Strauss-Kahn as the real victim — of rough American justice.

One politician said the case was being overblown — after all, "nobody died."

A prominent writer dismissed the alleged crime with a vulgar expression roughly meaning "getting into the maid's skirts."

HARPER, OBAMA WANT TO SPEED UP

► Prime minister says perimeter security plan to be unveiled by summer deadline ► 'Discussions on track'

Canada and the United States will have a plan in place by the summer on how to achieve the long-awaited perimeter security deal, Prime Minister Stephen Harper said Thursday.

Harper met U.S. President Barack Obama to discuss the plan on the sidelines of broader G8 discussions in the seaside resort of Deauville, France.

"The president and I are committed to pursuing a perimeter approach to enhance our security and accelerate the legitimate flow of people, goods and services between our two countries," Harper said.

"We are pleased that discussions are on track, and we expect to have an ambitious joint action plan ready this summer

Mideast peace

G8 discussion has focused on U.S. President Barack Obama's speech listing a return to 1967 borders as a condition for peace between Israel and the Palestinians.

- Obama's remarks were called "courageous" by French President Nicolas Sarkozy.
- But Stephen Harper didn't go that far. "I think if you look at the statement in its totality it was very balanced and it is certainly something that Canada can support," Harper said.

following public consultations."

The plan is expected to lay out priorities for the border deal and what both countries will do together and separately to make it happen.

Work on the pact, which aims to control who enters and leaves the North American continent in a consistent manner, began in February.

It would allow officials to ease security at the Canada-U.S. border, paving the way for a return to more free-flowing passage of vehicles and cargo.

Harper and Obama also discussed ways to erase regulatory differences that slow down trade.

Harper's meeting with Obama was among discussions he held Thursday to advance Canada's trade and foreign policy agenda. Newly minted Foreign Affairs Minister John Baird was also at the table.

Media saddle up for G8 race

Reporters covering the G8 summit are getting a trackside view for the historic event.

Organizers have set the 1,000-seat press centre smack along the rail of Deauville's très chic La Touques thoroughbred racecourse.

The track hosts race meetings year-round but the summer season won't begin until late June.

This weekend's meeting will, however, see thundering stampedes of reporters chasing the latest scoop on the leaders' talks.

Missing urged to get in touch

► First name on list of 232 missing in Missouri after tornado is alive, had no cellphone to contact family

As emergency workers in Joplin, Mo., searched Thursday for more than 230 people listed as missing after a tornado tore through the city, one sat outside the wreckage of her home.

Sally Adams, 75, said neighbours rescued her Sunday. When The Associated Press told Adams she was on the missing list, she laughed and said, "Get me off of there!"

Missouri officials had said they believed many of the missing were safe and alive but simply hadn't been in touch with friends and family. When they released the list of 232 names Thursday morning, they

Missing list

The list of those missing after Thursday's tornado in Joplin, Mo., is confusing many.

► Nursing home residents added to list:

12 residents of the Greenbriar Nursing Home are on the list. But nursing home administrators reported earlier that 11 people died in the tornado; only one was known missing.

urged survivors to check in. Cellphone service in the city remains spotty.

Not all of the stories of the missing will end as well as Adams'. The tornado killed 125 people, and some of their families waited Thursday for their remains to be released. One victim's funeral was scheduled for Friday morning in Galena, Kan., and other services were scheduled for the weekend.

But some of the bodies have yet to be identified. Andrea Spillars, deputy director and general counsel of the Missouri Department of Public Safety, said officials know some of the people unaccounted for are dead, but she wouldn't say how many or when the names of the deceased would be released.

Tornado watches withdrawn

In storm-weary middle America, many people counted themselves lucky Thursday after powerful storms swept through the region for the third time in four days but apparently claimed no lives.

Dozens of people were injured, mobile homes were flipped and roofs were torn off houses when tornadoes and thunderstorms hit Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and other states Wednesday evening.

Early Thursday, forecasters withdrew a slew of tornado watches in the South and said the heavy weather that pounded the Midwest in recent days had finally receded.

Nevertheless, violent storms could not be ruled out elsewhere.

Arnold's lawyer blasts Enquirer

- Tabloid alleges ex-governor misused his security detail
- Another report claims probe for alleged fund misuse

Arnold Schwarzenegger's lawyer is vehemently denying a report in the National Enquirer claiming that the former California governor allegedly used his security detail in an inappropriate manner.

"Today's story from the National Enquirer is totally and completely false," read the statement from Martin Singer.

A statement from Mark Hammond, a retired police officer who was part of Schwarzenegger's security team, read: "I can say without a shadow of a doubt ... at no time did I see Governor Schwarzenegger say or do anything that could be deemed inappropriate."

► Arnold Schwarzenegger

Meanwhile, RadarOnline.com reported that California's attorney general is investigating Schwarzenegger for alleged misuse of taxpayer funds.

Reached by the Toronto

Inquiry?

Top Democrat Eric Bauman has called for an inquiry.

► "Californians are greatly concerned that the former governor deceived not just his wife and his children," he told RadarOnline.com.
► "I for one certainly would like to know if any governmental or campaign resources were used to cover up this fiasco."

Star, a press spokesperson for the attorney general would neither confirm nor deny the existence of an inquiry. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

► Bosnian Serb army Gen. Ratko Mladic, second from left, accompanied by an aide and French UN security troops, arrives at a UN-sponsored meeting at Sarajevo's airport in 1993.

War crimes fugitive arrested in Serbia

Gen. Ratko Mladic, the brutal Bosnian Serb military commander suspected of leading the bloody massacre of 8,000 Muslim men and boys, was arrested in a raid Thursday in Serbia after years in hiding, the country's president said.

The arrest, which comes 16 years after Mladic was indicted by the UN war crimes tribunal for genocide, could be a jolt for Serbia's lagging efforts to join the European Union.

Serbia has been under intense pressure from the international community to catch Europe's most wanted war crimes suspect and the EU has insisted on his arrest as a condition for its membership bid.

UN prosecutors have said they believed the suspect in the worst massacre in Europe since the Second World War was hiding in Serbia under the protection of hardliners who consider him a hero.

Huffington Post debuts in Canada

The Huffington Post news website has launched its first international incarnation with HuffPost Canada.

In a blog post, co-founder Arianna Huffington said the new site would provide a "turbo-charged, Canada-centric" version of the Huffington Post.

On its first day, the site featured blog posts written by environmental activist David Suzuki, Green party Leader Elizabeth May and Victoria-born, Oscar-nominated actress Meg Tilly.

Huffington said the site would focus on politics and business, while also covering entertainment, sports and community news.

The company plans to launch a version in the U.K. on July 7.

Founded in May 2005,

the Huffington Post provides original reporting, content aggregation and a lively community for discussion.

The company was acquired by AOL in February for a reported $315 million US.

Google launches wallet of the future

► Google's 'single tap' solution allows shoppers to pay with a tap of their phone

Google Inc. launched its bid to dominate a world where the smartphone has replaced the wallet as the container for credit cards, coupons and receipts.

It's a vision shared by others. The Internet search and advertising company faces tough competition from cellphone companies and Visa, which all want to play a central role in tying together phones, retailers and banks into a new payment system.

Google said Thursday that it's launching a trial of its payment system in San Francisco and New York in co-operation with MasterCard and Citibank. It is opening it up to consumers in the summer. It then plans to expand across the country.

Google faces the same hurdles that have stifled previous trials in recent years. The new Google Wallet will initially work on only one smartphone, the Google Nexus S 4G carried by Sprint Nextel Corp.

It will connect only to MasterCard PayPass terminals. There are more than 135,000 of those in U.S. stores and restaurants, but that's only a small fraction of the total number.

Google calls it a "single-tap" solution, meaning shoppers should be able to pay with a single tap of their phone on a payment terminal, or a swipe past it. But in a demonstration at Thursday's New York event, a Google executive had to tap twice, then sign on the screen of the terminal provided by retail partner American Eagle Outfitters Inc. to get a purchase through.

The mobile payments system is more secure than credit and debit cards with magnetic stripes, but Google apparently faces a challenge in convincing retailers and perhaps also consumers of that.

The Wallet will initially work with a MasterCard from Citigroup Inc. and with a prepaid debit card issued by Google.

Partner Sprint is the third-largest U.S. cellphone company. The other three of the four national carriers have formed a consortium, called ISIS, to create a wallet that will compete with Google's.

Visa Inc. has also announced plans for its own wallet. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Users not so keen to swipe

A recent survey by the Canadian Wireless Telecommunications Association found only 18 per cent of mobile users were interested in swiping their phone at a check-out. Users aged 18 to 34 were somewhat more interested with 27 per cent expressing interest. Users were more willing to swipe a phone for other purposes, such as for using transit passes.

IDLE THOUGHTS ARE A WRITER'S PLAYTHINGS

THE METRO LIST

MIKE BENHAIM
METRO

1 Diplomatic immunity: I have a theory about ex-girlfriends. When you see her, and she is all dressed up, flaws temporarily obscured, she suddenly looks good again. But move in together and you will soon be reminded of why and just how much you hated her. It never ends well. In unrelated news, Bob Rae was chosen as interim Liberal party leader this week.

2 Touchdown: Former Super Bowl MVP Hines Ward won the coveted Mirror Ball trophy on Dancing With the Stars this week, which is great because the only thing his friends will make fun of more than being on Dancing With the Stars ... is WINNING Dancing With the Stars!

3 The Story of O: My mother was finally vindicated this week for her comments in 1986. After watching the first Oprah Winfrey Show, she stated, "Echh, this show will never last!"

"Scotty? Or Lauren? Whose musical career will I not follow first? Hmmm ... it's a tough choice."

4 The puck stops here: This week, the city of Vancouver revealed to the rest of the nation the secret to having a successful sports team: Don't live in Toronto.

5 Weather, or not?: There's nothing funny about the devastation caused by tornadoes in the central U.S. this week. What is funny is hearing the idiot with the camcorder say, "UH-OH, IT'S COMING TOWARD ME! Aaaaah ... THUMP!"

6 Diamond hoop dreams: Coming off his best NBA season, former Toronto Raptor and current New Jersey Nets forward Kris Humphries has deprived the North American singles scene of one of its prized members when he proposed to girlfriend Kim Kardashian. This will make him brother-in-law to Los Angeles Laker Lamar Odom, which may be awkward should they face each other in next year's NBA finals. Thankfully, if that happens, the event will take place in fantasy land because he plays for the Nets!

7 Subliminal seduction: After repeatedly listening to Rihanna's current hit, S & M, I believe I have uncovered subtle sexual undertones. My suspicions were confirmed when she opened the Billboard Music Awards in a titillating performance with Britney Spears that can best be described as "really slutty." I, however, much preferred the post-show interview where Britney tells us how much she has grown as a mother.

8 American Idle observations: Great performances by Beyoncé and Gaga. This just in — Tony Bennett is still alive ... sort of. Is it me or did one-half of TLC have one too many BLTs? Marc Anthony is one slick, badass latino stud. He married the "Most Beautiful Woman in the World," and flaunted her before our eyes. And all the while I was preoccupied with the night's "raison d'être." Scotty? Or Lauren? Whose musical career will I not follow first? Hmmm ... it's a tough choice.

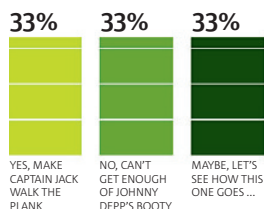

I would like to bid American Idol farewell. Adieu to you and you and you. Good riddance.

LONDON. A group of researchers claims it has found the most distant explosion ever detected, a pulse of high-energy radiation sent by a disintegrating star near the very edge of the observable universe.

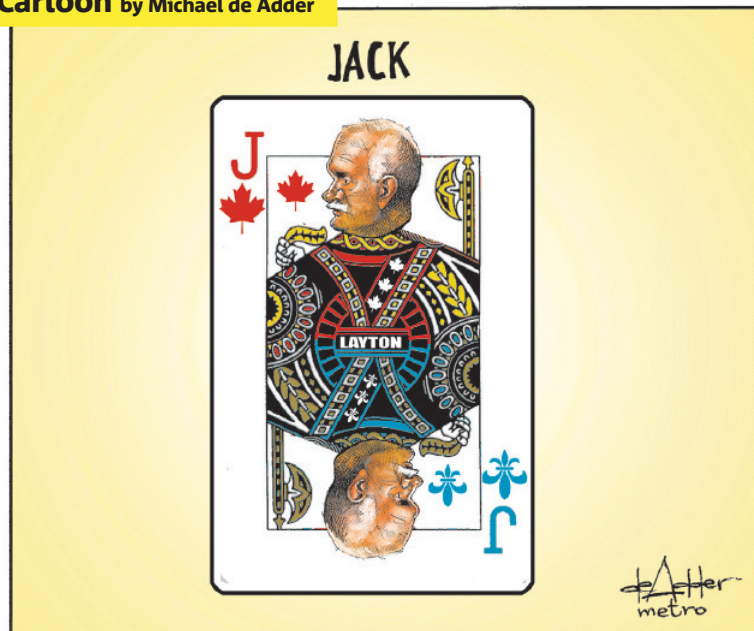

The stellar blast was first spotted by a NASA satellite in April 2009, but researchers announced Wednesday that they have since gathered data placing it more than 13-billion light years away — meaning the event took place when the universe was still in its infancy.

Andrew Levan, one of the scientists behind the discovery, said this blast from the past blew open a window into the universe's early years, showing that massive stars were already dying within the first few hundred million years of the birth of the universe.

This particular explosion wasn't a supernova but a gamma ray burst, the name given to a short but powerful pulse of high-energy radiation. Such bursts, thought to result from the collapse of massive stars into black holes, shoot jets of energy across the universe.

Planning 101: Think before you build

Lots of houses have a two-car garage. Dan Reeves' had a one-airplane basement.

Until, that is, the central Pennsylvania man knocked out a wall to get it out.

Reeves spent the past nine years building a two-seat airplane in the basement of his Cumberland County home. The plane arrived in pieces via mail, but eventually it became way too big to get up the steps.

So Reeves dug a trench down to the foundation and took out a wall. Reeves pulled the plane out Wednesday using a truck, a chain and some neighbours.

Onlookers were drawn to the spectacle by the "Airplane Removal Wednesday" sign put up on Reeves' porch.

Reeves tells the Patriot-News of Harrisburg he spent $40,000 on the plane and about $5,000 on the excavation.

Summer movie season

► Richard Crouse and Mark Breslin discuss which summer movies they are most looking forward to seeing ► Everyone loves a movie that involves aliens

The biggest film of last summer was Toy Story 3. What will hit the top of the charts this year? The Reel Guys have a look into their cinematic crystal ball and pick some favourites.

Richard Crouse: Mark, it's the season of crash, boom, bang. Movies with the number 2, 3 and 4 in their titles, and superheroes look likely to rule the summer, and as much as I enjoy a good popcorn movie, the prospect of being bludgeoned by Michael Bay for the next few months isn't the most appealing thought I've had today.

Mark Breslin: Only our editor could force me to see a

Michael Bay movie. I am looking forward to the next X-Men installment. It's a franchise that keeps getting better, and this prequel, which takes place in the '60s, seems to fuse real events (the Cuban Missile Crisis) with the sci-fi. Could be a potent combo. Richard, what are you looking forward to?

RC: The best summer movie trailer I've seen so far is for Cowboys and Aliens. I know it will be a loud 'n' proud summer flick, but I haven't ever seen a sci-fi western since Westworld, and anything Daniel Craig does these days is worth laying eyes on. If director Jon Favreau makes this half as much fun as he did the first Iron Man movie, it'll be a treat. Also, I love the name. So B-movie drive-in.

MB: Yes, the trailer looks like a lot of fun. Of course I'm a sucker for good sci-fi. Which brings me to my anticipation for Super 8, J.J. Abrams' take on early Spielberg flicks like ET and Close Encounters; and what will surely be the best movie of the summer, Rise of the Planet of the Apes.

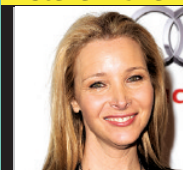

RC: Super 8 looks good to me as well. It looks like Stand By Me with aliens, but since J.J. Abrams keeps his plots under wraps I don't know for sure. Love that. I'm also looking forward to the ape movie. I grew up on the originals, and even had the Aurora model kits when I was a kid. But on a more serious note I really want to see the documentary Project Nim, a kind of real life Planet of the Apes about a chimpanzee raised by a New York City family in the 1970s. Anything other than the blockbusters that you're looking forward to?

MB: Larry Crowne, the Tom Hanks/Julia Roberts vehicle about romance in the downward socially mobile set, looks intriguing, and Bad Teacher, the deliciously amoral Cameron Diaz comedy, appeals to me, but only if she's really, really bad!

5 best Johnny Depp roles

► One of Hollywood's biggest stars, Depp has so many great movies it's hard to narrow it down to just five ► A pair of Edwards start off the list that shows how big the actor's range is

Johnny Depp is back in the scarves, jewels and eyeliner, bumbling his way from one adventure to the next as the insouciant Capt. Jack Sparrow in Pirates of the Caribbean: On Stranger Tides. It's the fourth movie in the monstrously popular Disney franchise and it's given Depp one of his signature characters. The fourth Pirates movie is already burning up the box office so expect more Jack Sparrow in the future.

But the 47-year-old actor and three-time Oscar nominee is one of the most versatile performers of his generation, immersing himself fully and believably in every role he takes. So here's a look at Depp's five best performances — although it would have been hard to choose the five best from the work he's done with Tim Burton alone.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Edward Scissorhands

The first of Depp's collaborations with Burton, who would go on to become his frequent director and good friend. The seeds were planted here for one of Depp's key on-screen personalities: the quirky-funny-awkward-sweet misfit.

He's all that and so much more as the title character, the creation of an inventor who died before his work was complete, leaving Edward to fend for himself in the outside world with scissors for hands. He's initially feared, but then his gentle demeanour wins over the bored residents of a tacky suburban enclave, including the beautiful teenager Kim (Winona Ryder).

It's a whimsical and dark fairy tale, and Depp's delicate performance is just heartbreaking. I cry every time I watch it.

Ed Wood

Depp's next film with Burton was the hilarious, sorta-true, black-and-white biopic about the director Ed Wood, who achieved cult status by famously making some of the worst films known to mankind, including Plan 9 From Outer Space and Glen or Glenda.

Depp infused the performance with the clueless, cheery optimism of a would-be auteur. But in portraying Wood's secret inner life — his proclivity for dressing in women's clothing — he also found a sweetness and a sensitivity.

You get the feeling that Depp (and Burton) were never making fun of Wood, but rather saluting him with an affectionate homage.

Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl
(2003)

The first time he played the role of Capt. Jack Sparrow, it was a startling thing to behold. He seemed kinda drunk and vaguely effeminate, out of control yet always on top of his game.

Depp was clearly channeling Keith Richards (who would show up in later installments in a cameo as Jack's dad), and yet he had created an indelible figure that was entirely his own. It was unpredictable, and that was thrilling. The first Pirates movie earned Depp the first of his three best-actor nominations. Now the novelty has long since worn off, but Jack can still be a kick.

Sweeney Todd: The Demon Barber of Fleet Street
(2007)

Back with Burton, Depp earned his third best-actor Oscar nomination for playing the title character in this film adaptation of Stephen Sondheim's revered musical. He and co-star Helena Bonham Carter aren't exactly singing — they're really acting the music most of the time — but that makes the whole experience feel even more frightening.

Still, in playing a vengeful barber who slits his customers' throats, Depp took on the kind of challenging role that's become his trademark; he can do anything, and he makes it look easy. With his shock of black-and-white hair and an obsessed look in his darkened eyes, Depp's Todd could be a long-lost, evil relative of Edward Scissorhands.

(2011)

With an honorary mention for Tim Burton's Corpse Bride (2005). These animated films reveal Depp's ability to provide a rich characterization, even when you can't see him.

In Rango, he lends his voice as a quick-talking lizard with a flair for the theatrical. Dumped in the tiny desert town of Dirt, this domesticated pet reinvents himself as Rango, and he's one tough hombre.

Depp is wonderfully goofy here; he sounds playful and free. In the gorgeous and strange Corpse Bride, a wonder of stop-motion animation and digital technology, Depp dials it down to play a young man who's shy, skittish and subdued, but just as fully fleshed out as any human being he's portrayed throughout his varied career.

Who will get the 'Cannes bump'?

► The dust has settled on Cannes, but what does it all mean ► Will Palme D'or win boost Tree of Life? ► Has Kristen Dunst resurrected her career?

ADAM

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

At a rumoured cost of more than $100 million US, Terrence Malick's drama The Tree of Life may be the most expensive film to ever win the Palme D'or at Cannes, making the question of whether the award will enhance its box-office potential all the more urgent.

The film, which has been compared in its cosmic scale and vast leaps through time to 2001: A Space Odyssey, was supposed to premiere at the prestigious French film festival in 2010, but a complicated series of events involving editing delays and nifty distributors held up plans for the premiere.

showing around the world.

Whatever its actual commercial potential, Tree of Life will open in June in an attempt to capitalize on its much-publicized Palme, but other Cannes buzz items will only show up in Canada during September's Toronto International Film Festival.

It's likely that one of these will be perennial provocateur Lars Von Trier's new apocalyptic melodrama Melancholia, which saw its director banned from a festival he's dominated for the past decade.

Not because of anything onscreen, but because of his remarks at a press conference claiming (in a badly conceived joke) that he felt some sympathy for Adolf Hitler.

Von Trier has been contrite, but he must know that on some level, any publicity is good publicity, and the combination of controversy and a starry cast — including Kirsten Dunst, who may have resurrected her professional reputation by taking home a Best Actress prize from the official jury — may give Melancholia the biggest "Cannes bump" of all.

► Actress Kirsten Dunst poses after winning Best Actress for the film Melancholia at the 64th Cannes Film Festival. Dunst may have benefited the most from the Cannes buzz.

Rocker pens book

► For those about to write, AC/DC's Brian Johnson salutes you

Brian Johnson actually wrote the book, Rockers and Rollers.

Not only does this mean that the AC/DC singer didn't have a ghostwriter, as many musicians who put out memoirs do, but Johnson put actual pen to paper.

"I just had a legal pad and a pen," he says, his cheery speaking voice sounding more like a storyteller who draws you in with a whisper at a pub than the high-pitched scream that has belted out some of the hardest hits to packed rock arenas.

Johnson says he began the book when AC/DC were working on their most recent album.

"As a vocalist, when you go into the studio, you usually hang around for a couple of weeks until they get the sound right on the guitars and the drums," he says.

"There's a lot of time doing nothing, so I just started putting these things down."

Johnson's book is not the typical rock 'n' roll story of a small-town kid made good. He tells his tale via the cars in his life.

"My memory is so bad that the only time I remembered things was when I thought of motor cars," he says.

The writing of Rockers and Rollers is not unlike an AC/DC song. It's humorous, it's fun and it's to the point.

Like father, like son

► Lukas Nelson paving his own road into country music but he is still standing in his famous father's shadow ► Set to tour with his dad

Lukas Nelson clearly remembers the conversation that launched him on the path to playing guitar for a living.

Nelson was 10 or 11 and his father, Willie, was showing him a few things on the guitar. The son asked his father what he'd like for his upcoming birthday and the answer changed Lukas Nelson's life.

"He said, 'I want you to learn how to really play guitar,'" Lukas Nelson remembered. "I said, 'OK,' and I did. I fell in love with it."

Lukas Nelson threw himself into learning the guitar and his progress will be on display this summer when he joins his famous father and a host of rising country music stars on the Country Throwdown Tour. Willie Nelson headlines the traveling festival that kicks off

"I'm looking really forward to it. We have a lot of fun together and I'm so proud of him that he's doing so good."

WILLIE NELSON ON TOURING WITH HIS SON

► Musician Lukas Nelson performs onstage during 2011 Stagecoach: California's Country Music Festival at the Empire Polo Club.

Friday in Philadelphia.

Jamey Johnson, Randy Houser, Lee Brice and Brantley Gilbert among others will join the Nelsons on the 25-city tour. And while the iconic Country Music Hall of Famer is looking forward to seeing those guys, he's really excited to spend the summer touring with his son. No offence.

"Oh, I can't wait," Willie Nelson said. "I'm looking really forward to it. We have a lot of fun together and I'm so proud of him that he's doing so good."

Lukas Nelson released his first self-titled album with his band, Promise of the Real, last year and expects to play 250 or more shows in 2011. There are times when he looks, sounds and plays like his dad, but the 22-year-old guitarist is clearly attempting to cut his own path.

The album is filled with rock 'n' roll, from flaming electric Texas blues rock to spacey and spiritual psychedelia.

He covers deep influences Neil Young and Jimi Hendrix on the album and at times sounds more like the offspring of Stevie Ray Vaughn than the heir of the Nelson clan.

‘My favourite concert...’

► We asked a few hit makers to take us back in time and share their favourite concert memories with us

“Just this last summer at the Download Festival in Donington, it was just unbelievable to play half of the set without the lights because it’s so bright in the sun ... To just go, ‘You know, we’re not using anything but us.’ It was a wonderful moment just knowing it was just you five guys playing to 130,000 fans without any electronic gizmos or any help with pictures or anything.”
Brian Johnson, AC/DC

“The first show I ever saw was the Beach Boys for free at a big public park in Wilmington, Delaware — my hometown. Few things are more enjoyable than listening to the Beach Boys outdoors in the summer, though the Beach Boys sound good any time any place!”
Tony Goddess, Papas Fritas

“My first outdoor concert was

“I went to Reggae on the River. No one was smoking weed. It was crazy ... There were no dreadlocks, no weed, and it smelled great ... Make no mistake though, people SCHMOKED WAAAADE. There’s no way to write that, is there?”

ANDY SAMBERG, THE LONELY ISLAND

the first Lollapalooza ... That was a spiritual experience right there. I remember Jane’s Addiction singing, Summertime Rolls, and it was raining out and it was like, ‘Ahhh, this is so great!’ ... The summertime outdoor shows are the best concerts to attend and the best concerts to perform, because I think the ancient purpose of music is so spiritual — however you want to translate that word — and our ancestors have used it over the centuries in the outdoors, whether singing to the stars or singing for rain or singing for medicine. But it was always working with the natural world, so the experience of being able to be in the outdoors and be able to listen to music and play music just takes the whole ceremony up a few notches.”

Craig Minowa, Cloud Cult

“Summer, winter, fall spring — it’s all the same to me. I’m not in school anymore so every day is summer.”

Nikki Sixx, Motley Crüe

Your soundtrack to summer

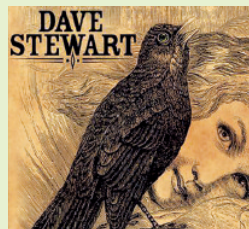

► As the season heats up, you're going to need some cool tunes ► Metro has your fix ► We've got the latest from indie acts (Black Lips), rappers (Pitbull), old-timers (Neil Young) and even someone dead (Queen!) LINDA LABAN

Black Lips
Arabia Mountain
(Vice) June 7

Who: Sharp garage rockers from Georgia, home of the rebel yell.
What: Courtesy of producer Mark Ronson (Amy Winehouse, Adele), the sixth studio album from these Atlanta braves is more crafted than crafty, adding R&B horns and a pop curve.

Why buy: While it's the band's most accessible record, Arabia Mountain retains the Lips' essential snot and spit.

Dave Stewart
The Blackbird Diaries
(Razor and Tie) June 28

Who: The guy behind '70s mod-punks The Tourists and '80s pop giants Eurythmics goes cowboy! Again!
What: Stewart takes a nostalgia trip through rural

America (and his youth) talking up Mississippi John Hurt, writing a song with Bob Dylan, and duetting with Stevie Nicks, Robbie Caillat and Martina McBride.
Why buy: Moody rootsy rock, stuffed with stinging guitar licks.

Arctic Monkeys
Suck It and See (Domino Records) June 7

Who: Yorkshire U.K.-based pop rockers with a smart punk edge.
What: The Monkeys survive the aftermath of the '00s back-to-the-garage movement with an album that has more pomp and stomp, and '70s heavy rock shtick. But always with that sly, wry Arctic afternote.

Why buy: To contemplate the metaphorical implications of a title such as Don't Sit Down 'Cause I've Moved Your Chair.

Queen
News of the World, Jazz, The Game, Flash Gordon, Hot Space
(Hollywood Records) June 28

Who: The band that put the wham bam in glam celebrates its 40th anniversary.

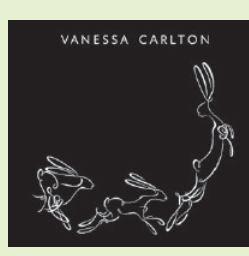

What: Following the winter reissues of Queen's early '70s gems, round two re-ups records from 1977 to '82.
Why buy: To top out the volume and crank We Are The Champions, We Will Rock You and Fat Bottomed Girls.

Neil Young
International Harvester: A Treasure (Reprise Records) June 14

Who: The man who rivals Dylan for world's biggest road hog title.
What: These live cuts date from a time when Young pissed off corporations (including his then label) and went rogue, touring in 1984 and 1985 with this stellar country combo.

Why buy: Completist alert: Whether on CD, limited edition vinyl or the deluxe CD/Blu-ray package, this includes five previously unreleased songs.

Vanessa Carlton
Rabbits On The Run
(Razor and Tie) June 28

Who: The girl behind the beautiful piano pop hit, A Thousand Miles.
What: No overbearing over-souling, Carlton delivers her grl-pop straight, candidly exploring the twits, twists and simple turns of fate that any girl of any age can relate to.

Why buy: Sweet, easy-listening, non-bubblegum pop with lovely arrangements. Chill time.

Pitbull
Planet Pit
(J-Records) June 21

Who: Miami rapper Armando Christian Pérez nails vice-like rhymes into hit singles. You've heard him on tracks from T-Pain and the latest from Jennifer Lopez.

What: Pitbull's team on his sixth album reads like a block party A-list: Ne-Yo, Afrojack and Nayer join in on first single, Give Me Everything. T-Pain and Sean Paul add their two cents worth later. Everyone hugs.

The Deer Tracks
The Archer Trilogy Pt. 2
(The Control Group) July 5

Who: Stylish Swedish boy-girl duo David Lehnberg and Elin Lindfors make moody electronic pop.
What: Part 1 was a teasing EP's worth of spiraling folky electronic dream pop; this goes full-length, before another EP, also due this summer, bookends the project. Possible electronic pop opera to follow?

Why buy: To cement the stereotype that all Scandinavians are smart and stylish. We're just jealous.

Don't cut Grammy categories, music coalition urging

A coalition of musicians is demanding the Recording Academy restore more than 30 categories cut from the Grammy Awards, alleging the reductions unfairly target ethnic music and were done without the input of its thousands of members.

A protest was planned Thursday in Beverly Hills, Calif., at an academy board meeting. It is part of a campaign by those upset by last month's decision to reduce the Grammy fields, which this year totalled 109, to 78.

Grammy President and CEO Neil Portnow said changes would be in effect for the 2012 Grammys. But protesters hope the process could be reversed in time for next year's Grammy ceremony if at least one board member asks the academy to reconsider.

"I believe the Grammys have done a disservice to many talented musicians by combining previously distinct and separate types of music into a catch-all of blurry larger categories."

PAUL SIMON, IN A LETTER TO GRAMMY PRESIDENT AND CEO NEIL PORTNOW

"Hopefully during that time, someone will rise and be brave enough and do this," Bobby Sanabria, a four-time Grammy nominee in the Latin jazz category and a leader of the movement against the changes. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's just too much music and not enough time.

We spend so much time researching and searching for the next big song/album/artist that we don't spend enough time actually savouring music anymore. This is why so many people rely on recommendations from friends, curators and algorithms.

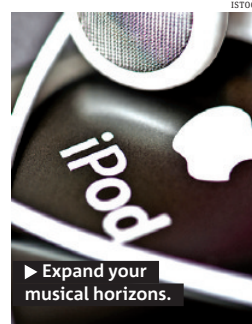

Some have found salvation in various apps for their smartphones and tablets. Here are a few of my favourites.

Discover (iPod touch, iPhone, iPad, Android; $0.99): Fire up the app and enter the name of an artist you like in the search field. Suddenly, the screen blossoms into what looks like a molecule with that first artist at the nucleus. Pictures of people who make similar music radiate outward. Touch any of those connected artists and a new molecule forms with related artists. Frighteningly addictive.

Hitlantis (iPhone, iPad, Android; free): Similar to Discover, this app displays artists who have registered with the service. Each band appears as a colour-coded planet orbiting the Hitlantis sun. The closer an act is to the sun, the more popular it is with users of the app. If you're interested in indie, unsigned and undiscovered bands, this is a gold mine.

Moodagent (iPod touch, iPhone, iPad, Android; $4.99): After analyzing all the music on your device, Moodagent offers a series of emotion-related slider controls that allow you to create mood-based playlists, tailoring the music for your current headspace and location. And should you want to share how you're feeling, Moodagent connects with Facebook and Twitter.

Planetary (iPad, Android; free): When it was released earlier this month, this app spread through the music-loving geek community like a comet. Like Moodagent, Planetary analyzes the music on your device and organizes everything into gorgeous 3-D star charts and planetary systems. Touch on a star or a planet and watch what happens.

Shazam (iPod touch, iPhone, iPad, Android; free for the basic version): Ever been somewhere and heard a song that you liked but couldn't identify? With Shazam, you just hold up your device so it can "hear" what's playing. After a few seconds, the app comes back with the name of the song, the artist and a chance to instantly purchase the song right on your device.

SoundHound (iPod touch, iPhone, iPad, Android; free for the basic version): Similar to Shazam but boasts the ability to recognize a song in as little as four seconds.

Festival bound? Best plan ahead

► You scored tickets to this summer's hottest festival, but that doesn't guarantee a good time ► Here's where to stand, what to bring and getting your money's worth

It's summer music festival season, which means hundreds of thousands of concert-goers will herd into dusty fields or the wet grass and pass out from a combination of heat exhaustion and over-indulging. Fun! But don't let it happen to you.

There are a few key do's and don'ts to make the most of outdoor shows this summer.

Frank Bombaci Sr. is the organizer of the third annual B.O.M.B. Fest, taking place this May in Hartford, Conn. With marquee acts like Weezer, Snoop Dogg, Wiz Khalifa and Best Coast playing, we figured we could trust him to share some of his tips to do festivals right.

Plan ahead

"You want to get to the event early and stake out some good strategic spots," says Bombaci. "With a festival like ours, there is so much music and multiple stages, you should look at the schedule and map out your strategies. Anchoring your day around the one band you definitely need to see will help you figure out what you have time to check out elsewhere."

Don't lurk by the main stage

"Pay attention to all the stages and really give those artists the opportunity to be heard. At the smaller stages the music is phenomenal, even if lots of times people don't really know who they are," he says. "They might be headlining next year, so now's your chance to see them up close."

What to carry in

"It's always good to bring a rain jacket," says Bombaci. "You never know when the rain gods are gonna open up a bit." Actually, yes you do.

During every outdoor concert ever! Another tip: Lots of festivals, like B.O.M.B., have relaxed the restrictions on bringing water into the venue, but not all. Find out ahead of time what you can bring. And, it's obvious but worth noting:

"Don't forget to bring sunscreen," says Bombaci. "You watch people over the course of the day turn into lobsters."

get to bring sunscreen," says Bombaci. "You watch people over the course of the day turn into lobsters."

But don't bring this

"At our event," says Bombaci, "it's not wise to bring in any kind of cooler. Those aren't going to be allowed. You usually can't bring in a professional-style camera either. Pocket cameras are cool, but people have to be understanding that artists don't like flashes in their faces."

Find the right angle

"One thing about festivals that have multiple stages, there's always sound bleed. It's always a good idea to get close to the stage, and near the centre of the stage, to reduce sound bleed from other stages," advises Bombaci. "If a person can afford it, buy a VIP ticket. It's always going to be in a great viewing area, in the shade out of the sun, and strategically placed so you get good sound quality."

Other common mistakes

"I've seen people bring small children to festivals, which is cool to expose them to music and a fun crowd, but you've got to make sure you bring ear protection for kids, and make sure they're lathered up with sunscreen." But what about my other child — the family dog? "Our events don't allow pets, but some do," says Bombaci. "I don't think it's a wise idea."

Bringing the Bible to TV

► Series to combine live action with computer-generated imagery to retell stories such as Noah and the Ark ► Some shooting planned for Middle East

As a kid in the 1960s, reality TV king Mark Burnett was thrilled by the special-effects miracle of a sundered Red Sea in The Ten Commandments.

"How cool was that?" said the producer of Survivor and The Apprentice, who watched Cecil B. DeMille's 1956 film when it aired on television.

Now it's Burnett's turn

"Regardless of your beliefs — and we're not drawing on any feelings about the importance of faith — this is the most-studied book of all time."

HISTORY CHANNEL PRESIDENT
NANCY DUBUC

to wow a small-screen audience with epic Scripture stories: He and his wife, actress Roma Downey, are producing the 10-part docudrama The Bible for the History channel.

It's set to air in 2013, History channel President Nancy Dubuc said Tuesday.

Burnett said he and Downey (who starred in a different look at faith, the fantasy series Touched by an Angel) have been working on the project for two years.

Both grew up with Scriptures, he in England and she in Northern Ireland, but aren't on a mission, Burnett said.

"People apply personal meanings to the Bible. Our job is to tell the stories in an emotionally connected way," he said, adding that much of great literature and its characters are rooted in the book.

For a new generation, The Bible provides a way to visit the work "in a visual and entertaining way" that may encourage viewers to seek more information, said Dubuc.

Burnett called it humbling to portray the Scriptures on screen and gratifying to "breathe fresh visual life into incredible stories for a global audience."

The miniseries offers rare depth and the chance to create a "legacy" project, said Burnett, 50, whose credits also include the new singing contest

Docudrama

The Bible also has global appeal, of value to the History Channel and its 150-country reach, Dubuc said.

► The Bible is among the channel's biggest ventures, she said, declining to detail the budget.

► A committee of theologians and scholars is being assembled to consult on the series, adds Dubuc.

A bloody good time

► Diva Zappa talks about her movie, hotels and the joys of getting messy

In Do Not Disturb, five directors offer five different takes on what goes on behind the privacy tag of a very busy hotel room, with a quiet and curious maid, played by Diva Zappa, as the constant element throughout.

The actress spoke to Metro about working with multiple directors, the fun of getting doused in blood and secondhand hotel anecdotes.

Your character is the constant element through all the sections of the film. How was that?

That was a surprise. It just kind of happened while ► Diva Zappa starts in Do Not Disturb, a film that features five different directors.

we were on set. They just kept putting me in, saying, "Go walk in — and say something, if you want to." I really didn't know what I was in for, and every day was a surprise. Every day was a new adventure because new crews were brought in every day.

That sounds like a unique way to make a project.

Yeah, it was. To work with five different directors in such a short amount of time, it was amazing training to recognize what you don't need to get involved in so you just keep your head down and work on your own stuff. You didn't have time to get into anybody else's business, because if you did it wasted the day.

Have you had any weird hotel experiences in your own life?

No, personally I can't think of any, but I do know my family has seen some pretty interesting things. Because, you know, my father toured a bunch, and we would go with occasionally, so we travelled a little.

Is there a section of the film that you're most fond of?

Yes. I hate to say it, but yes. All of the directors are amazing, and each of them gave me an experience I've cherished, but I had the most fun in Jon Mann-Krieger's piece because that was when I first got to be sprayed with blood.

You did look pretty cool covered in blood.

I know, how weird is that? I'm in another movie where I got covered in blood, and the pictures of me in blood — I'm, like, stunning. It's very strange. Very, very weird. I love it. It's really fun to get dirty, and I don't get to get dirty that often.

It's one of my favourite things, if it's in a safe situation and I know I can go take a shower — which actually I didn't really do on that set, because on the first day of blood it got clogged and there was a problem. When lunch would be called, I couldn't move my hands to eat, so we had to put gloves on me. But it was pretty interesting and fun.

► Dan for Mayor star, Fred Ewanuick, talks about his character and where he sees the show going this season ► Season premiere is June 5

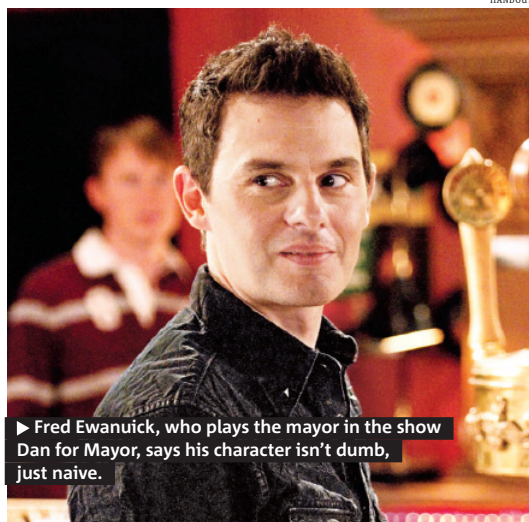

You can call the title character of Dan for Mayor a lot of things, but don't call him dumb.

"He's not dumb. Not at all," insists actor Fred Ewanuick, who plays the unlikely mayor of Wessex in the comedy series — which begins its second season June 5th on CTV.

"He's just inexperienced. Naive. He's being put in these situations he's not familiar with. But he's really trying to make an effort to be a good mayor."

Still, audiences can be forgiven for thinking dumb.

For six seasons, Ewanuick played one of the most memorable Canadian TV idiots — Corner Gas' lovable schlub Hank. It's a character that's hard to shake as you're watching Mayor Dan make bad decision after bad decision.

"He's definitely smarter than Hank. Dan's intentions and his logic are always good. But it's always best when he doesn't try so hard to do the right thing."

Fans of Dan for Mayor might be wondering where the comedy will go this season. After all, the show is called Dan for Mayor. What's he going to do now that the election is over and he's mayor?

"It's a little different this year. There's not that continuing kind of soap opera plotline. The episodes are self-contained. We also lost a few cast members to other jobs. But there's some great new ones."

The second season of Dan for Mayor premieres June 5th at 7:30 (ET) on CTV.

X-factors plague Cole as show removes her

▶ Former Pussycat Dolls singer, Scherzinger, rumoured to be a replacement

British star Cheryl Cole is reportedly no longer a part of the U.S. edition of X Factor, Simon Cowell's new singing competition, which is set to premiere in September. While Cole has been a hit on the original U.K. version of the show, there were concerns her accent would be too difficult for American audiences to understand, according to TMZ.

There are reportedly other issues as well, including a "lack of chemistry" with fellow judge Paula Abdul. The change of heart regarding Cole apparently came after taping of the show's audition rounds began in Los Angeles. While there's been no official word on who will replace Cole at the judges table — where Cowell, Abdul and producer L.A. Reid sit — sources claim former Pussycat Dolls singer Nicole Scherzinger, the show's co-host, would step into the role.

While reps for Fox have yet to comment on the story, a source close to Cole tells Us Weekly it's done.

"It's true. She isn't on the show anymore. Everyone is gob smacked. This came out of nowhere. She had already been tested countless times. Simon had nothing to do with it. This is the network's doing." ● METRO

Twilight star rebuffs Spears' advances

MAYBE IT'S BECAUSE SHE IS IN THE TWILIGHT OF HER CAREER Britney Spears doesn't get everything she wants, apparently, as the singer had her sights set on making out with Twilight hunk Kellan Lutz for her latest video, I Wanna Go, according to E! Online.

But Lutz reportedly turned down the offer to co-star in the video, which would've featured him rescuing her from paparazzi and locking lips in the backseat of a car — until she discovers he's a robot.

Coolers for the mature crowd

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

If you're over 30, you probably await the arrival of the year's new collection of coolers with the same enthusiasm you reserve for the release of a Britney Spears album.

Influenced by popular flavours of the moment, their sweet, often boozy personalities are squarely aimed at a younger crowd rather than an older demographic with more refined tastes.

That said, some producers try to woo a mature audience with ready-to-drink combinations that are as subtle as they are sophisticated.

Of this year's cooler crop, Bassano Hard Sodas — with their great back story and familiar-meets-exotic flavour profiles — may be summer's cross-generational drink.

Modelled after the Italian sodas made popular in North American speakeasies during the Roaring '20s, Bassano blends vodka with sparkling spring water and natural fruit flavours to create a dry, lightly effervescent, wine-esque beverage.

In fact, both the raspberry jelly candy flavour of the Bassano Hard Soda Raspberry Pomelo (4 x 330 ml, $8.98 - $11.69) and the 7-up sensibility of the Bassano

Hard Soda
Lemon Sanguielli (4 x 330 ml, $8.98 - $11.69) beg to be served over ice from a large red wine glass.

► When you fire up the grill this weekend, consider making your own barbecue sauces and meat rubs

Grilling condiments galore

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/ MATTHEW MEAD

► Making your own grilling rubs and barbecue sauces offers unique flavour options.

Grilling season is here and spice rubs and barbecue sauces are easy ways to pump up the flavour. Grocers offer a huge selection of rubs and sauces intended for steak, chicken, pork, seafood, even veggies.

But consider saving money and making your own. They are easy to assemble and you can better cater to your tastes.

Seven Pepper Grilling Rub

While this rub is wonderful on steak, also try it tossed with chunks of zucchini and summer squash, skewered shrimp and chicken breasts.

Preparation:

- 1 In a blender or spice grinder, or with a mortar and pestle, grind all ingredients together. Store in sealed jar.

Ingredients:

- 50 ml (1/4 cup) kosher salt
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) brown sugar
- 10 ml (2 tsp) ancho pepper powder

- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) red pepper flakes
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) cayenne pepper
- 5 ml (1 tsp) ground black pepper
- 5 ml (1 tsp) ground white pepper
- 5 ml (1 tsp) pink peppercorns
- 5 ml (1 tsp) sweet paprika
- 5 ml (1 tsp) smoked paprika

Maple Apple Bourbon Barbecue Sauce

Tangy or mellow, spicy or mild, barbecue sauce is the icing on the steak — or ribs, or whatever else it is you happen to throw on the grill. Next time you're craving barbecue sauce, try this thick maple-based sauce.

It's a good choice for basting on grilled meats toward the end of cooking.

Preparation:

- 1 In a medium saucepan over medium-high, heat oil. Add onion, garlic and apples. Cook until onion is a golden brown and apples are quite soft, about 10 minutes.

- 2 Add all remaining ingredients, then return to a simmer. Reduce temperature to medium, cover and continue to cook, stirring often, for 30 minutes. Adjust salt and pepper. Transfer to a blender, in batches if necessary, then puree until smooth. Cool, then refrigerate in sealed glass jars for 2 weeks.

Grilling tips

Consider these tips when grilling.

- Use clean utensils and plates when removing cooked meats from the grill.
- Keep hot food hot until you are ready to serve.
- Ensure meat is well sealed and that ice water doesn't come in contact with stored meat. This can lead to cross-contaminations.

Sauce Tip

Lightning intruding on Bruins' Cup plans

▶ Tampa Bay has never lost in three Game 7s since joining NHL in 1992

The Boston Bruins thought they excised the spectre of last season's post-season collapse when they finished off the Philadelphia Flyers in the second round this year.

Yet here they are, one round later, trying to turn back another comeback.

The Bruins play the Tampa Bay Lightning in Game 7 of the conference finals on Friday night (CBC, 8 p.m.) with the winner moving on to face the Vancouver Canucks for the Stanley Cup. But Boston could have avoided a winner-take-all predicament if it had merely protected a three-goal lead in Game 4; scored more than one power-play goal a week in the playoffs; or kept Tampa Bay from scoring, as often as not, in the first 90 seconds of the game.

BRUINS FORWARD PATRICE BERGERON

"We've got a Game 7, it's at home, and we're one game away from the Stanley Cup finals. Why shouldn't we be excited?" coach Claude Julien said Thursday. "Our guys are not discouraged or disappointed.

The past is the past. We've got an opportunity to win a hockey game and get into the Stanley Cup finals."

The Bruins spent most of this season trying to forget blowing a 3-0 lead to the Flyers and their demons seem to have returned.

Leading the Lightning in the series 2-1 In Game 4, the Bruins opened up a 3-0 lead before allowing five straight goals in a loss. The Bruins also led 3-2 in the series, with a 2-1 lead after one period of Game 6, before the Lightning came back to win 5-4.

The Bruins can call upon their experience in Game 7 against Montreal in the first round, but Tampa is more familiar with elimination games. The Lightning fell behind the Pittsburgh Penguins 3-1 in the first round before winning three straight to advance. Wednesday's victory over Boston made them 4-0 this season in elimination games and goalie Dwayne Roloson is 7-0 in his career when facing elimination.

Winnipeg's hockey future still up in air

The Atlanta Thrashers' owners and Winnipeg's True North Sports and Entertainment were still working through complex legal details on the sale and relocation of the team on Thursday.

One of the Thrashers' lead owners, Michael Gearon Jr., told The Associated Press Thursday "nothing has been done yet."

True North would relocate the team to Winnipeg if a deal is completed. It reportedly has agreed to pay $110 million US for the team and another $60 million to the NHL as a relocation fee.

Gearon said Thursday no new possible buyer has emerged with a bid for the Thrashers.

NHL commissioner Gary Bettman has said time is a factor if the team is to make the move for the 2011-12 season.

Even if an agreement has been finalized, it likely would not be announced on Friday, when Boston and Tampa Bay play Game 7 of the Eastern Conference finals.

Atlanta Mayor Kasim Reed talked on Tuesday as if losing the team is inevitable.

"It is going to hurt the city but we will withstand it just fine and we will get through it," Reed said.
